
Title: Wonder

Author: Rufus

Wonder

If Life was so forgiving
that,
Fate's cards would be dealt in neater stacks.
Restful slumbers would
suffice,
They'd be all we need to continue life.
If I was selfish then I'd think.
To rid the Orc's of their
stink.
And let them even carry
on.
With or Without,
humanity still is strong.
To each his own, when
choices made.
A friendless drow denies
a aid.
He calls for shadows but they deny.
So I wonder where evil
truly lies.
If friends find hurt in
what I've done.
Their veiwwill change
when Battles done.
Ones like the Drow are
why I chose.
To take a Humanis view
and pose.
I hate not others, hardly
an elf.
Mayhaps its cause I dont
know my self.
My faults might be what makes me who I am.
Self Hatred suggests the green man.
In my wonder, I feel
abused.
And in my wonder, Im so
confused.
Light should shine, no matter where I am.

My confusion is that I
stand a man.
Embrace my whole and
then I'll right,
All my wrongs, and Guard
the Light.

~~Rufus Oryan~~